BCTextEncoder is a small-sized and portable application that enables users to seamlessly encrypt text when sending messages across the online platform. It does not contain complex options or configuration parameters, making the tool accessible to all types of users, even those less experienced. Portable vs. installer Since installation is not a prerequisite, you can place the executable item in any location on the hard disk and just click it to run. There is also the possibility to save BCTextEncoder to a mass storage device, in order to run it on any PC with minimum effort and no previous installers. The interface is clean and intuitive, allowing users to either type or paste the text they want to encode. Two encryption methods As far as encryption is concerned, this can be done by applying a password (AES-256 algorithm) or using a public key. Public keys can be generated from scratch or imported from an existing file. Quickly encode and decode text Decoding text is easily done, similarly to encoding it. Plus, you can increase or decrease the indent, copy the encoded or decoded text to the Clipboard or save it to external files, as well as manage the key database. Fast and easy-to-use encryption tool The app is pretty light when it comes to the CPU and RAM, so its impact on system performance is minimal. We have not come across any problems throughout our evaluation, since BCTextEncoder did not freeze, crash or pop up error dialogs. Thanks to its intuitive interface and options, this tool can be used by anyone for seamlessly encoding messages using passwords or public keys.
